firs. Apoopendyke, alternately rub-bing the frame a very heetic chromo and sucking the thumb she had been mering for the last twenty min-"It's awful sweet and thoughtful of you, dear, to effer your assistance at such a time, for I do believe I never yould have got a nail driven in that tupid wall." "Of course you wouldn't, my dear!"

laughed Mr. Spoopendyke. "Who ever saw a woman that could drive a nail? You couldn't drive a galvaniz-ed carpet-tack in a leven pould blad-der of putty. And speaking of driving nails, I'd like to know if you're over going to hand up that hammer, or meat pounder, or whatever you're been using. Think I can drive nails with my clow?"

"It's the stove handle, love," said Mrs. Spoopendyke meesly, handling lim a mysterious looking implement, with a wooden handle at one end and the under jaw of a shoemaker's plyers at the other.
"Oh, it's a stove hook, is it?" said
Mr. Spoopendyte, regarding the weapon with a sinister expression. "Now, if you'd handed me up a dog-iron, or a pair of steelyards, I'd have "But the wall's so soft and lovely, dear, it really drives them beautifully if they would only stick," said Mrs.

"Only stick!" said Mr. S dyke, contemptuously; "now, I'll bet that you never wet the mucilage on stande naik before you started. That's why they didn't stick for you ouch! Are you going to state serenely by and see me beat my knuckles into a shapeless pulp the plaster. Try another place—that's the way I managed that."

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Spoopendyke; "that's the way you managed it! and you have punched enough holes in here to play cribbage in. Will you gimme another nail? Don't you see I've knocked this one flat, and can't unpry it no soain?" "Can't unpry it up again!

Well if that ain't grammar !"
"Oh, ain't it?" said Mr. Spoopen or am I driving nails?

that it won't get back in a century!'

The tollowing article from the Chroniale and Constitutionalist, published at Atlanta, Georgia, is exceedingly significant and interesting. While such feeling exists, "the gospel of hate" can hardly be preached or practiced with much effect: "With anguish we ananuace that the worst lears have been confirmed, and James A. Garfield, president of the United States, is dead. By the hand of a fanatic of most disreputahe hand of a fanatic of most disreputabeing, so useful, so powerful, so manly, so excellent, should become the victim ot. To Him we leave the vindication outh suffered long years of agony and resecution for another's crime. Innomit of the assessination of Garfield, the south, tearless of the future and forget-ful of the past, stands tearfully beside the reices of the president, and prays that the storm-tossed spirit shall have the rest of the righteous, and a sanctuary in that eternal haven, where, 'lulled to slumber, grief torgets to mourn."

Dr.*B. J. Kendall & Co.—Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for benefits and profits which I have derived from your invaluable and far famed Spavin Cure. My consin and I had a valuable stallion worth $4,000, which had a very bad spavin, and was pronounced by four eminent Veterinary Surgeons beyond any cure, and that the Horse was done for ever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect, the third bottle cured it, and the horse is as well as ever. Dr. Dick, of Edinburgh, the eminent veterinary surgeon was an uncie of mine, and I take great interest in assisting his profession. Yours truly,
